The Changing Face of STATE PUBLIC HEALTH

THE LEADERS: STATE HEALTH OFFICIALS

This information comes from the ASTHO Profile of State Public Health, Volume Three. The Profile is the only comprehensive source of information about state public health agency activities, structure, and resources.

To view the complete Profile report, visit www.astho.org/profile. You can also download this infographic or the full Profile report or request access to Profile data.

THE FUTURE: GROWING OPPORTUNITY

This information comes from the ASTHO Profile of State Public Health, Volume Three. The Profile is the only comprehensive source of information about state public health agency activities, structure, and resources.

To view the complete Profile report, visit www.astho.org/profile. You can also download this infographic or the full Profile report or request access to Profile data.

THE PEOPLE: STATE HEALTH AGENCY WORKFORCE

As of 2012, there are approximately 101,000 full-time equivalents working at state health agencies in all 50 states and DC.

This represents a nationwide decrease of approximately 6,000 FTEs from 2010 to 2012.

Ocational classifications with the highest average number of FTEs in state health agencies:

- 395 Administrative/Clerical Staff
- 223 Public Health Nurses
- 116 Environmental Health Workers

The average age of state health agency employees is 47 years.

The average number of years of service by a state health agency employee is 12 years.

THE LENGTHS: STATE HEALTH OFFICIALS

The length of time state health officials have been in their position (as of December 2012):

- Longest tenured: 20 years
- Shortest tenured: 1 month
- Mean 3.4 years
- Median 1.8 years

The percentage of state health agency employees that are eligible for retirement is expected to increase from 18% in FY 2012 to 25% in FY 2016.

On average, state health agencies have 303 vacant positions. Backgrounds in public health nursing and information technology are highly desirable.

THE FUTURE: GROWING OPPORTUNITY

The percentage of state health agency employees that are eligible for retirement is expected to increase from 18% in FY 2012 to 25% in FY 2016.

On average, state health agencies have 303 vacant positions. Backgrounds in public health nursing and information technology are highly desirable.

Launched in 2007 and fielded every two to three years, the Profile Survey aims to define the scope of state public health services, identify variations in practice among state public health agencies, and contribute to the development of best practices in governmental public health.

ASTHO thanks the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for their generous support of the ASTHO Profile of State Public Health.

Launched in 2007 and fielded every two to three years, the Profile Survey aims to define the scope of state public health services, identify variations in practice among state public health agencies, and contribute to the development of best practices in governmental public health.

ASTHO thanks the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation for their generous support of the ASTHO Profile of State Public Health.